Oil Industry Is Building For Tomorrow Says Speaker

The oil industry is building for your tomorrow," C. W. Stoll of Louisville told the Murray Rotary Club yesterday. Mr. Stoll is chairman of the Community Affairs Committee of the Kentucky Petroleum Council and was invited for the program yesterday by Charles Mason Baker and Tom Winchester.

Mr. Stoll is also associated with the Sinclair Refining Company in Louisville.

He told the club that Oil Producers Week which is now in progress, was designed to focus the attention of the nation on the oil industry and the progress which it has made.

"All business should set aside a program or certain time to 'blow their own horn' he said. The oil business does not want to be taken for granted, he continued.

He pointed out to the club that over half the counties of Kentucky are oil producing and that over ten thousand families in the state derive their livelihood from one of the four areas of the oil business: production, transportation, refining or marketing.

"I told the club of my own experience in the oil business which was started by his grandfather. At that time, he said, the primary products were axle grease and Kerosene. Gasoline was a useless by-product he said and constituted a worry for his grandfather who was always afraid that the "obnoxious explosive" might get mixed up with the Kerosene.

In 1930, Mr. Stoll told the club, 88 per cent of the cars used regular gasoline which was 63 octane while the twenty per cent used premium gas, which was 73 octane.

Today, he continued, 88 per cent of the cars use regular gasoline which is now 86-87 octane and 12 per cent use premium which is from 96-98 octane.

The demand for higher octane gas was caused by the improved automobile motors, he said.

Mr. Stoll defended the industry from such allegations as price fixing, depletion of natural resources, etc.

He also pointed out to the club that tremendous strides had been made in new lubricants and means to keep pace with modern machinery. Research is going on constantly, he said, to keep pace with the demands of tomorrow, whatever they might be.

He concluded by saying that in the great free enterprise system of America, the oil industry would keep its pledge to the American public to supply it with the best in products and service.

A number of guests were present. Oil men who attended as guests of various members were Paul Jones of Sinclair, Kenny Myers of Gulf, Noel Melugin of Phillips 66, and Orvis Hendrix of DX-Sunray Oil.

Howard Oilla had Ed McIlhenney of Nashville as his guest and Julian Evans had William Moore of Louisville.

Visiting Rotarians were Ed Lynch of Georgetown, Kentucky, Loren Adams, Al Lindsey, Raymond Miller, Ray Edwards, Al Wilson and Charles Stratton of Mayfield.

Clarence Bryant was a guest of Chuck Shuffett.

President Walter Baker announced an intercity meeting on October 30 with Mayfield.

Faxon Team Wins Over Aurora

The Faxon Coyotes were victorious over the Aurora Grade School Team last night by a score of 54-43.

Faxon jumped into an early lead and went out from 14-5 at the end of the first quarter and led 27-17 at halftime. Aurora made a strong bid to capture the lead in the third period but fell short by five points as the Coyotes held the upper hand 34-20 at the end of the stanza. The Faxon squad pulled away to a 54-43 victory in the final canto.

Three of the Calloway boys scored in double figures. Futrell led the way with 19 but was closely followed by Hays with 14 and Farris with 12. Shepherd and Stallion paced the Aurora attack with 13 and 12 points respectively.

Two Jets That Fly Twice Speed Of Sound Revealed

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press International

Two new jets that fly twice the speed of sound and a lethal missile called the Bulbup today were slated for early introduction into America's tactical air forces.

The new jet fighters that will multiply Air Force striking power for small or big wars are the Republic F105 Thunderchief and the Lockheed F104 Starfighter, a ground attack version of the current F104 Interceptor.

The Air Force put these and other new weapons through some demonstrations Thursday at the complex of air bases and gunnery ranges near Las Vegas where it is holding its annual weapons competition.

For Strike Forces

The planes, whose speed makes them tough to defend against, and missiles are earmarked for air strike forces of the Tactical Air Command, like those dispatched to the Middle East and Formosa area in the crisis of the last few months.

The tactical forces' mission is to deter war and, failing that, to deliver nuclear or conventional bombs, support ground troops and provide air defense in combat theaters.

Lockheed test pilot Lou Schalk demonstrated the speed of the new F-104C when he flew it here from Palmdale, Calif., about 250 miles, in barely more than 10 minutes. It took several hundred observers to load into buses and ride six blocks to the Nellis Air Force Base flight line to greet the plane.

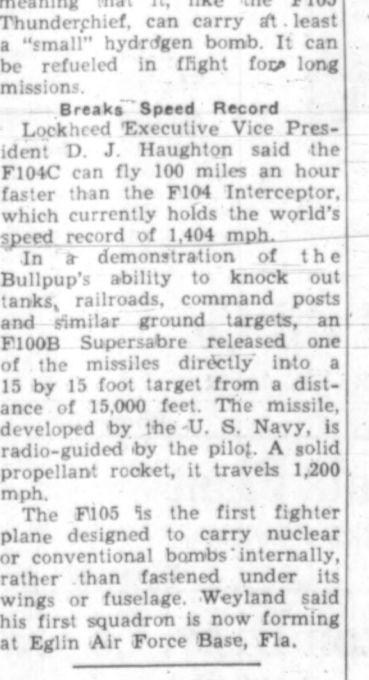

Gen. O. P. Weyland, tactical director of the 3rd Air Division, can carry the "complete span of offensive weapons," evidently meaning that it, like the F105 Thunderchief, can carry at least a "small" hydrogen bomb. It can be refueled in flight for long missions.

Breaks Speed Record

Lockheed Executive Vice President D. J. Haughton said the F104C can fly 100 miles an hour faster than the F104 Interceptor, which currently holds the world's speed record of 1,404 mph.

In a demonstration of the Bulbup's ability to knock out tanks, railroads, command posts and similar ground targets, an F105B Super Sabre released one of the missiles directly into a 15 by 15 foot target from a distance of 15,000 feet. The missile, developed by the U. S. Navy, is radio-guided by the pilot. A solid propellant rocket, it travels 1,200 mph.

The F105 is the first fighter plane designed to carry nuclear or conventional bombs internally, rather than fastened under its wings or fuselage. Weyland said his first squadron is now forming at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Chandler Did Not Have Power, Court

FRANKFORT UPI — The state Court of Appeals ruled today that Gov. A. B. Chandler exceeded his authority in attempting to transfer the Division of Property out of the state Department of Education.

The high court held, in effect, that the governor does not have the power to transfer functions of state government from one department to another by executive order.

The Air Force put these and other new weapons through some demonstrations Thursday at the complex of air bases and gunnery ranges near Las Vegas where it is holding its annual weapons competition.

Good Weather To Aid Area Fishing

FRANKFORT (UPI) — A combination of fair weather and cooler waters is providing Kentucky with some top fishing in lakes and streams, according to the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Bass fishing is excellent at Kentucky Lake, with big ones being taken by casting the banks in the early morning.

Black bass are the No. 1 catch at Dale Hollow and at Herring Lake. Crappie catches are fair to good with some fine strings being taken.

The drawdown of the lake level at Lake Cumberland slowed fishing there but some fishermen report fair luck with crappie.

Dewey Lake reported crappie are the best catch — and some black bass being taken by casting.

The streams are in good fishing condition and nice catches of bass are reported in smaller streams.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice always. Thessalonians 5:16.

The battle may be far from won, but we have word of the final triumph. That is ground for rejoicing.

FOREIGN CONSPIRACY

LOCAL state and federal authorities are aroused over the criminal bombings of schools and Jewish temples throughout the South, and have set about to solve the mystery.

There is such a pronounced pattern in all of these bombings that the local angle is being discarded in favor of the theory that it is the work of foreign agents.

The FBI has known for years that a favorite Communist trick is to foment internal strife through the use of racists and religious bigots, and these recent bombings are definitely the work of professionals.

We have always had a certain amount of race and religious discord in the South, but it has never been strong enough to cause public schools and places of worship to be bombed.

We can think of nothing that would please international Communists more than to create strife between white people and negroes, and between Protestants, Catholics and Jews.

Last week when the FBI entered the dynamite blasting of the Clinton High School many people considered it federal interference in a local or state crime.

There is evidence that bombings in several Southern communities since last March might be inspired abroad and it is distinctly a federal case and one in which the military intelligence might play a part.

We know what Communist infiltration has accomplished in many other countries. The same tactics won't work in a democratic society like ours. That may be the reason for efforts to turn race against race and foment religious bigotry.

IT'S AN AMERICAN HABIT

WE Americans like to think about the future. It's one of the qualities that distinguish us from the peoples of the old world. Whether we are planning the development of a newly-admitted state or approving a bond issue to build a high school, a good part of our lives is devoted to preparing for tomorrow.

The men who manage oil companies have to plan even further ahead than the rest of us. America has a abundant reserves of oil right now, but the demand for petroleum products is expected to increase by one third by 1965. To find the sources of oil that will be supplying us in the 1960's requires years of patient, costly exploration. It also takes years, of course, to plan, design, and build refineries, pipelines, tankers, laboratories, and other equipment needed to transport, process, and distribute petroleum products.

We'll be hearing more about this as the oil industry celebrates its annual Oil Progress Week. With the theme
"Today — Oil Builds for your Tomorrow," oil company people plan to tell us this year about the plans and preparations they have to make now to assure us all of a dependable supply of petroleum products in the year's to come.

We hesitate to offer predictions ourselves, but there's one statement we can make for sure. Building for the future costs money, and no oil company can make plans without some assurance that it will be financially healthy.
American companies must be permitted to continue operating and competitive prices that earn reasonable profits, if we are to have the abundant future we all expect.

Bigger And Better Team Beat Murray

Coch Jim Cullivan said this morning that the Murray State Thoroughbreds were beaten by a bigger, deeper, and better team
Saturday night at Louisville.

"However," he said, "but for a couple of mistakes the difference in score would have been only one or two touchdowns instead of 27-0."

The Racers were, as in earlier games, hurt by penalties, collecting 90 yards during the game.
Pass defense was still a sore spot as it was against Eastern.
The Racers showed that they might be able to build a pass offense for future games as they completed 9 of 19 passes for 93 yards, most of them coming in the final quarter. Buddy Parker, third-string quarterback did most of the throwing.

The squad came out of the game in fair physical shape. Halfback Joe Carwright suffered a sprained ankle, but he will be ready to go again by the weekend.

Jim Chapman, who bruised a hip at Eastern, was unable to perform at full capacity in the game, but it is hoped he will be fully recovered for Morehead. Halfback Corky Carman, who sprained an ankle in a pre-game workout, will probably be hampered by the injury all week.

The Breds who will be playing at home for the first time since their opening game Sept.
20, are eager for a victory over Morehead.

Cullivan says that he expects the Eagles to be eyed by their highest-pitch for the game.

Our Value...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL — ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a schoolhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
